

Principles of Manual Handling for Window Cleaners Inc Water Fed Pole MRS Disorders

Specifically designed for the window cleaning industry

Introduction

This new qualification builds on the principles of manual handling by allowing learners to continue their learning from the theory of the risks and possible controls in manual handling for window cleaners onto applying the principles of safer manual handling in everyday tasks.

The course is designed for everyone involved in the industry, it is delivered over one full day.

Course Summary

Ratio of Trainers to trainees	1-10
Course duration:	1 Day

Course includes

Material- pen - pads
Information Folder
Tea-Coffee
Buffet Lunch

Assessment method: Continuous Assessment by the trainer

Course Syllabus

- The scope of legal requirements and where guidance can be found
- Manual Handling hazards, risks and controls
- How Manual Handling operations can cause injury and harm
- What is a Musculoskeletal Disorder
- Musculoskeletal Disorders from the use of Water Fed Pole
- The process for assessing manual handling risks
- The value of risk assessment and how it applies to safe Manual Handling practice
- Controlling the Manual Handling risks in Window Cleaning
- Postures and Techniques

Course designed for

Company Directors
Managers
Operatives
Designed for: All employees
Practical & Theory based training

Upon successful completion certification is valid for three years

Course Fee based on 10 attending

£125 per learner